

The New International Criminal Court: Representing Defendants, Victims and Witnesses

Wednesday, November 19, 2003 6:00 – 9:00 p.m.

Association of the Bar of the City of New York
42 West 44th Street, New York City

This unique program on the world's newest international court provides a comprehensive overview for lawyers interested in practicing before, or learning more about, the International Criminal Court (ICC), based in The Hague, which will prosecute persons accused of genocide, war crimes and crimes against humanity. An all-star cast of international lawyers with vast practical experience on the ICC, international courts and international criminal law will be your guide. The ICC will soon begin hearing its first cases, and the legal community should understand the structure of the ICC and its unusual procedural rules, which combine elements of civil and common law systems along with many novel procedures. This program is a must for any lawyer interested in international law, international crimes or practicing before international tribunals.
